Last update: April 8, 2010

This guide is based on the 7th edition (2009) of the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers. For further explanation and for more examples, please consult the Handbook, shelved in the Reference section of the Augustana Library at REF LB 2369 G53 2009.

To use the MLA style, create specific in-text (parenthetical) citations throughout your work (use column 1b below) and a works cited list at the end of your work, arranged in alphabetical order, that provides full details about your cited sources (use column 1a below).

- Works cited list entries (column 1a below) usually contain, in the following order:
 - Author/creator information (see the examples below for scenarios with multiple authors, etc.)
 - Title information (see the examples below for title variations)
 - Publication information (e.g., place of publication, publisher name, and publication date for books; volume and issue numbers for journal articles)
 - A medium indicator clarifying in what format you used the source (e.g. Web, Print, CD)
- In-text citations (column 1b below) are usually structured like this: (Author's last name page(s) cited).
 - If your source has no page numbers (e.g. a sound recording or a website), then no page numbers can be given in your in-text citation. In your writing, you can try to give the reader general directions to the passage you cite. For example: "In his concluding paragraph, Gladwell expresses uncertainty that this debate will ever be resolved."

URLs (e.g., <<http://www.library.ualberta.ca>>) should not be included in your works cited list unless "the reader probably cannot locate the source without it or [...] your instructor requires it" (MLA Handbook 182).

Your works cited list should always be double-spaced, alphabetized, and indented like the examples below. See section 5.3.2 in the MLA Handbook for an example of a formatted works cited list. For more information about in-text (parenthetical) citations, see sections 6.1 – 6.4 in the Handbook.
