

Importing Records from PubMed into RefWorks

After running your search, click on Send To, select File and set format to MEDLINE. When prompted save file.

The screenshot shows the PubMed.gov website interface. The search bar contains 'electronic health records canada'. The search results show two items. The 'Send To' menu is open, showing options: File (selected), Clipboard, Collections, E-mail, Order, and My Bibliography. The 'Format' dropdown is set to 'MEDLINE'. The 'Sort by' dropdown is set to 'Recently Added'. A 'Create File' button is visible at the bottom of the menu.

In RefWorks, go to References/Import.

The screenshot shows the RefWorks interface. The 'References' menu is open, showing options: Add New Reference, Import (highlighted), Import EndNote V8+ Database, Export, Organize Folders, and Backup/Restore.

Set Import Filter/Data Source on NLM PubMed and Database on PubMed. Click on Browse to locate the file containing your PubMed records. Click on Import.
